

ABSTRACT

5

A method and apparatus for presenting a plurality of link devices as separate nodes within a single serial bus module by generating individual or a distinct configuration ROM image for each link device in the module. Each configuration ROM includes an entry for a distinct identifier representing the 10 corresponding link device thereby creating a one to one mapping of link device to node via the distinct configuration ROM.

0943289-11029
662077-6982460